Today Microsoft published their advance notification for the June security bulletin release, scheduled for release next Tuesday, June 8. This month's release includes ten bulletins addressing 34 vulnerabilities.

- Six of the bulletins affect Windows; of those, two carry a Critical severity rating and four are rated Important.
- Two bulletins, both with a severity rating of Important, affect Microsoft Office.
- One bulletin, again with a severity rating of Important, affects both Windows and Office.
- One bulletin, with a severity rating of Critical, affects Internet Explorer.
